

2016 Environmental Industry Summit XIV
March 9-11, 2016, Hotel del Coronado, San Diego, California

The Environmental Industry Summit is a national three-day conference and networking event bringing together senior executives in the environmental industry. With an ideal setting, ample networking opportunities, and presentations from top executives and analysts, the Environmental Industry Summit offers attendees a unique opportunity to gain invaluable insight into today's environmental industry and its prospects.

The conference program features sessions designed to put current business conditions into a strategic context for senior executives who are responsible for charting and executing strategic plans. Emphasis will be placed on (1) big-picture, long-term issues such as industry dynamics, business cycles, and broad environmental policy priorities; and (2) short-term business management issues such as management, marketing, human resources, competitive positioning, and business development.

A special feature of the Environmental Industry Summit is EBJ's annual Business Achievement Awards. Gold, silver, and bronze awards and honorable mentions for business performance and M&A, plus technology and project merit awards will be presented at a banquet dinner. A complete list of categories, as well as information about nomination procedures is posted on the event web site.

Attendee profile

This key industry event annually attracts about 130 senior-level executives from environmental consulting & engineering firms, remediation contractors, lab services, pollution control equipment and professional services firms and other sectors. Titles include:

- Firm owners and managers
- Presidents and CEOs, principals and partners
- COOs, operations managers, division managers
- CFOs and financial managers
- VP/marketing and business development
- Legal, insurance, software, and other professionals who serve the environmental industry

The conference presents an ideal opportunity to interact with owners and senior executives from environmental firms who attend each year to network and learn about market opportunities and the outlook for the industry and new opportunities for high-level providers of professional services.
